

Strengthening Commerce through Worldwide Business Validation

Project Title	Strengthening Commerce through Worldwide Business Validation
Project Summary	Support the Department of Commerce's Bureau of Industry and Security Office of Enforcement Analysis' efforts to identify foreign actors involved in activities of national security and foreign policy interest through a process of rigorous vetting and research utilizing open source information.
Country	United States

Project Description

Support the Office of Enforcement Analysis' efforts to identify foreign actors involved in activities of national security and foreign policy interest through a process of rigorous vetting and research utilizing open source information. The Global Trade Researcher will review the bona fides of a foreign actor to determine their legitimacy, activities, and relationships (e.g., trade, ownership). The Global Trade Researcher's deliverables could include foreign market research, business trends, organizational link charts, and written analysis supported by citations. Countries and sectors of interest will vary, but the Global Trade Researcher will have the opportunity to help identify and pursue a project of mutual interest over the course of the internship. All work will be completed virtually. Relevant classroom and/or job (e.g., internship, employment) experience includes business administration, national security, international economics, political science, law enforcement, legal, Chinese, Russian or Middle Eastern-area studies; international experience; interest in a career in national security; strong analytical, writing, and communications skills required; a self-motivator and team player with the ability to manage multiple work streams and deadlines.

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)

Analytical writing

Data analysis

Economic analysis

Research

Additional Information

None

Language Requirements

None